

I disagree strongly with the proposed BPL technology. There is certain to be mutual interference between it and the amateur service, in which I have been licensed 53 years. Expectations that the power companies will correct problems are almost surely a pie-in-the sky approach.